

	Chapter 1 (Pre-Assembly)	Chapter 1 (Post-Assembly)	Chapter 2	Chapter 3	Chapter 4	Holiday Break	Chapter 5	Chapter 6	Chapter 7
Alasdair Location: Classroom Hallway			ALICIA: Oh, Alasdair. I'm sorry that your club, uh... ALASDAIR: Ah, Alicia! I bear you no ill will for your victory in the snowball tournament. Dialectical conflict is how society must progress! History will prove that Monarchists are the true victors! Plus, now that students are no longer allowed to have our pamphlets, they've become much more popular. ALICIA: Phew... I'm glad things kind of worked out. Principal Enfield was remarkably civilized about disbanding our club. We had considered the possibility that we might be beheaded as political dissidents.	Just because you defeated us doesn't mean monarchy isn't the superior form of government, you know. Imagine if leaders were raised from birth to have skills in leadership and diplomacy? To put the will of their people first? Let me tell you, something like this snowball tournament would never happen under an ideal monarchy.	Don't get me started on this ridiculous "Student Council" institution, indoctrinating young minds into the cult of democracy. You know what happens if leaders have to beg and scrape for votes? They compromise their ideals. They sell their souls. I'll have you know I was made leader of the Young Monarchists by divine right, mostly because I was the only club member for two years.		The Principal is a great example of the sort of failure of leadership you get when you allow money to dictate who is in charge instead of breeding. The Principal must kowtow to outside influences to keep his job. Surely that's what's causing his nonsensical decisions. ...I wonder what happened to Thibault and Genevieve. I hope they are staying loyal to the Monarchy in their hearts.	N/A (Missing from campus)
Handel Location: Stadium			N/A (Present, but unreachable)	BEFORE JANIA APPEARS IN CLUBROOM: I think Jania's decided she's going to join your club. Umm... apologies in advance for any trouble she causes. AFTER JANIA APPEARS IN CLUBROOM: Listen, Jania means well. She can just be a little... overbearing sometimes. Please cut her some slack. Do you think empathy is a really a psychic power? Jania and Scarlet say so, but I think maybe they're just trying to make me feel better?	It's true that Scarlet is really good at figuring out an object's past by looking at it. It's a little like that show where people take old junk to see if it's secretly worth a lot of money, but... with emotions and conflict instead of money. It's a little scary. Don't tell Jania, but sometimes I wonder if psychic powers are more trouble than they're worth.		Being in the library always makes me feel calm. This is a very well-loved space. ...A lot of that love is coming from that guy Benny over there, I think.	N/A (Missing from campus)
Katie Location: Auditorium (Ch1), Science Lab (Ch3+)		The <link="club">Equestrian Club</link> has been through worse than this. We will survive.		N/A (Present, but unreachable)	AFTER BATU LEAVES SCIENCE LAB: This defeat was just a setback. No one knows horses better than us, Alicia. And we know horses never truly die. ...Not having horses or a club will make it particularly challenging to win the steeplechase competition this year. When you become the <link="ultimate">Ultimate Club</link>, will you gain your heart's desire? Do you even know what that desire is? If it's horses, that would be very convenient.		I'm not going to lie; life without the club has been tough. But these are still my friends, and we will survive together. We can't get bogged down thinking about revenge. We have to get through this. It's what Sleipnir would have wanted. Hmm. If I founded another club right now, do you think we'd still have to participate in the snowball tournament?	When we first lost our horses, Minnie built a little shrine to them in the back of the art room. It was just about the saddest thing I'd ever seen. That's when I vowed that, no matter what, the Equestrian Club would stay alive. No matter what... have I failed to keep my promise? Do I really have no other option?
Alvin Location: Prop Room			Ah, I see you've found my secret backstage sanctum. Everyone always gives the actors all the credits, but it's really the crew behind the scenes that make everything happen! You're welcome to look around, but don't touch anything! I have everything organized just the way I want it.	N/A (Unreachable, prop room locked)	Master of Props is an ancient and respected title. In old wars, they used to give out all the weapons and armor. They say that Merlin was a Master of Props, and because he was so helpful people thought he was magic. What is "prop" short for? Property? Propeller? Only the Master of Props knows.		I can't talk much right now, everything's in crisis. The show's in just a few weeks and all of a sudden a bunch of people have stopped showing up to rehearsals. Wait... the school play didn't count as a club, did it? Have we been disbanded?	N/A (Missing from campus)
Kimberly Location: Classroom Hallway			Can you believe it? Kelly asked me to help her with a "prank." How delightfully quaint! I wouldn't know where to start with a prank. That boy in your club seems like he would know. The one slumming it, with the sunglasses. Have you seen that sad excuse for a skating rink in the Annex? Remind me to tell you sometime about the winter I went ice-skating with the ambassador's son in Paris.	I think it's so admirable how you're always running around to help people out. Why do you not simply ask your personal assistant to help? Is it because you were raised with "down-home common sense" values? Oh, I know! Are you making an imagination game of your daily tasks? How adorable!	DURING PERSONAL SIDEQUEST: Why can I not connect with my classmates? I await your news with bated breath. AFTER PERSONAL SIDEQUEST: Alicia, I forgot to warn you. The boots I gave you are ever-so-slightly out of fashion. They are still acceptable for a cotillion or garden party, but anything beyond that might be risky. Alicia, you must not give in to despair! The boots will surely come back into style at some point.		I have taken your advice to heart, and listened to three students so far today! It is truly fascinating, the things they think are important. The most difficult was listening to that one boy in the Animal club. The one who speaks entirely in facts about fruit bats. is it... ordinary for common folk to think of yourselves as animals? I hadn't realized how dreadful your situation must be.	N/A (Missing from campus)
Todd Location: Outside Principal's Office	Oh, h-hey Alicia. Fancy seeing you here. I mean, obviously. We both go to the same school and all. Um. <link="mumble">Oh god! She's talking to me! What do I say?</link> Have a 'cool' day?	(Same as Pre-Assembly)	H-Ni. N-nice to see you... umm... around?	DURING PERSONAL SIDEQUEST: I, uh... there's a note outside the stadium. AFTER PERSONAL SIDEQUEST: Thanks for, um, being so thoughtful...	TODD: Is there, umm... anyone you're nervous to talk to? ALICIA: I guess I get a little nervous around Septavia. She's just always doing such important things, you know? Oh, I think, um, you do things too. I mean! You're important. To, um, everyone. No one in particular.		Oh, h-hey Alicia. Fancy seeing you here. I mean, obviously. You see me here, um, a lot. Just 'hanging out in this hallway. I 'guess this is our hallway spot, huh? <link="mumble">Oh no, that was way too far! Why did I say that?</link>	N/A (Missing from campus)	